Annual Christmas Poem

*It's almost Christmas time again, how did it come so fast?
It seems like only yesterday, two-thousand ten flew past*

*So Santa's on his way again, his sleigh is full of toys
He's going to hand them out real soon, to all the girls and boys*

*Last year he checked us out real good, he saw everything we did
But he really wasn't happy with some mean things that were said*

*He'd like us all to keep in mind, we're neighbors, don't you know
He say's we have to be willing, to compromise and so . . .*

*Let's all make an effort to be neighborly and nice
It's really not that hard, and it's surely worth the price*

*Christmas and a brand New Year, allows us all to shine
To be mindful of our neighbors and really take the time*

*To remember why we live here, in paradise, you know
In the Rolls Royce of Aiea, someone told me that was so*

*Santa says he knows for sure, we can all work together
So when he visits next year, he's sure we'll all do better*

*So keeping that in mind, here's what I vow to do
I promise to be nicer, and I hope that you will too*

*So Merry Christmas everyone, I wrote this for a reason
I wish you all a very safe and Happy Christmas season*
